The Ka Palapala Po'okela Awards are given biennially by the Hawai'i Book Publishers Association (HBPA) to recognize the finest books published in Hawai'i and to honor individuals involved in their creation. HBPA sponsors these awards as part of its public outreach effort to enhance the recognition of book publishing as an industry in Hawai'i and support local literacy. The term "Ka Palapala Po'okela" can be translated from Hawaiian to mean "excellent or exemplary manuscript."

Nominees are customarily judged in twelve categories of excellence. In each category, two honors may be given—an Honorable Mention and the Award of Excellence—as determined by the votes of adjudicators specially-selected for their expertise in a particular category's subject matter, genre conventions, target audience, etc. Each category of excellence will be judged by a committee of three adjudicators as appointed by the HBPA.

While the awards are primarily designed to honor Hawai'i's regional publishing, a special "Aloha from Across the Sea" award recognizes excellence in books about Hawai'i or with a Hawaiian theme that are published outside of the state.

Two additional trophy awards may also be presented by the HBPA membership: the Samuel M. Kamakau Award, given for the overall Hawai'i Book of the Year, selected from the category Award of Excellence winners, and the John Dominis Holt Award, given to an individual for an extended history of Excellence in Hawai'i Book Publishing.

Entries must be postmarked by Friday, April 26, 2019. Books displaying a 2017 or 2018 copyright date published by a Hawai'i publisher may be nominated for the selected award category/categories. Publishers from outside the state of Hawai'i may nominate their book(s) about Hawai'i or with a Hawaiian theme for the "Aloha" award only.

Entries must be bound books, with an assigned ISBN number, of at least 50 pages in length – except children's books or poetry volumes. Periodicals are not eligible. All Hawai'i-based publishers are eligible to nominate books for all awards except the "Aloha" award. Nominating publishers do not have to be HBPA members.

Entry fees are $50 per nominated book or individual, per category for HBPA members, and $75 per nominated book or individual, per category for non-HBPA members. The entry fee for publishers outside the state of Hawai'i nominating for the "Aloha from Across the Sea" award is $125. Three copies of each nominated book are required for each category entered, as well as a disc with a 300 dpi, 4 x 6 inch, color jpeg of the book's cover. If a book is to be entered into more than one award category, a separate nomination form, entry fee, and three copies of the nominated book are required for each nomination. An additional copy of each nominated book is also requested for a special display at the Hawai'i State Library during the award adjudication period. The display set will be donated to the library following the award ceremony in the fall of 2019.

For example, a book nominated by a publisher in two different categories would require a total of seven copies for entry (three copies for each category adjudicating committee and one for the Hawai'i State Library display set). Entries will not be returned.

Judging will be completed from May through August. Award presentations will be made at a special ceremony tentatively planned for October. More information on the award presentation ceremony will be made available on the HPBA website at www.hawaiipublishers.org.

HBPA will not notify nominees of their entries. It is the responsibility of the nominating publisher to notify their nominees.

Please note: The Ka Palapala Po'okela award name and logo are registered to and may not be used without permission from the Hawai'i Book Publishers Association. Winners agree to allow their books, names, titles, and/or photographs to be used in promoting Hawai'i book publishing, the awards program, and HBPA, or in individual publisher advertising.

HBPA reserves the right to move entries among the award categories as well as merge categories as necessary and appropriate in a given year, and may choose to withhold presenting one or both honors in a category on the advisement of a category's adjudicating panel at the discretion of the HBPA's Ka Palapala Po'okela Awards committee. Decisions of the awards committee are final.

Award categories ask for book nominations as well as individual nominations. On the nomination form, please indicate the nomination category and list the appropriate persons who contributed to the book project and, if the book were to win, should receive an award certificate. (Please note that the awards committee has the authority to change selected entry categories and/or to merge categories at its discretion). Winners will be determined by the votes of specially-selected adjudicators chosen by the HBPA for their expertise in a category's subject matter, genre conventions, intended audience, etc.
